ADMIT DEFEAT OF MCCUMBER IN N. D. PRIMARY

La Follette Looms as Senate Power.

Fargo, N. D., June 29.—Defeat of Senator Porter J. McCumber in the North Dakota Republican primary became virtually certain late tonight as delayed returns from Wednesday's vote were counted.

With 1,217 precincts out of 2,239 tabulated, the count stood: McCumber, 5,195; Frazier, 55,145. But the "back country" are in large measure yet to be heard from.

McCumber's headquarters here declined to concede his defeat at the hands of Lynn J. Frazier, former Nonpartisan governor, but the Fargo Forum and Grand Forks Herald, papers that have led the opposition to the nonpartisans, have issued extra editions conceding that McCumber has been defeated.

Senator's Lead Dwindling. Senator McCumber's lead was dwindling with half the vote counted, and under ordinary circumstances his lead should have grown as city precincts came in.

Political observers believe that a lead of as much as 20,000 for McCumber at this stage of the tabulating could be overcome by Frazier in the country precincts, which will be the last to report.

For the gubernatorial nomination Nease (dark), with 58,367, is far ahead of Baker (Non-P.) with 47,101. The rural vote probably will increase Baker's figures.

NEWS SUMMARY

PROPOSED RAIL STRIKE.

Railroad executives issue flat refusal to accept wage and work contract ultimatum of unions. "No surrender" is their slogan. "War on United States if you strike now," officials contend.

No interruption of transportation to be permitted in event of threatened strike of railroad employees, which administration holds would be wholly unjustified and a blow directed at the labor board.

Lake boats and motor trucks listed to supply Chicago if railway strike should cause tieup in Chicago.

THE COAL SITUATION.

Coal operators and miners to be given opportunity to make peace when they confer with President Harding Saturday, failing which the President will propose basis of negotiations.

Colorado and West Virginia mobilize troops to deal with mine strikers' outbreaks.

FOREIGN.

Free State troops storm Four Courts building and capture most of it.

A. Bruce Blasius says Mexican kidnapers were amateurs and planned no violence for his war activities.

Russia plans to submit to European experts lists of material and products needed for reconstruction instead of pressing demand for loans at The Hague.

BOOST FOR LA FOLLETTE

D. C., June 29.—The apparent defeat of Senator McCumber in yesterday's primary will cause a deep dent in the old guard control of the senate.

If Mr. McCumber has failed to secure renomination, as he himself was ready to concede today, the two most important committees in congress may fall into the hands of radicals within a short period.

Through the operation of the seniority rule, Senator McCumber, who was of twenty-three years service in the senate, is chairman of the finance committee and second in rank on the foreign relations committee. These two committees in recent years have come to be regarded as the most powerful in congress.

FAMILY GETS ALL BUT $100,000 OF ESTATE OF W. ROCKEFELLER

[Copyright 1922 By The Associated Press.]

New York, June 29.—[By Associated Press]—All but $100,000 of the great estate of William Rockefeller will remain in the Rockefeller family, under the terms of his will filed for probate today.

The $100,000 goes to the only executor who is not a member of the family—John A. Garver, lawyer, who drew the will.

The rest of the estate, variously estimated at from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000, goes in four equal shares to Mr. Rockefeller's four children—William G. Percy A., Mrs. Emma Rockefeller McAlpin and Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge.

Provision is made that their inheritances, when they die, shall pass on to their children, although none of the estate was put in trust except a quarter of Percy A. Rockefeller's share, which was made a trust fund for his children.

There were no bequests to charity. Nothing was left to old family retainers, nor to any employees of the Standard Oil company with whom Mr. Rockefeller had been familiar.

Aurora, Ill., June 29.—[Special]—On the ground that by her work on the farm since 1893 she has earned a full half share of her husband's wealth, put at $75,000, Mrs. Gottlieb Willett of Malta, Ill., asks a division of the property in a divorce suit she filed today.

Besides working in the fields and milking the cows she raised five children, Mrs. Willett says.

Mrs. Willett also asserts that she brought her husband a dowry of $2,974 marks when they were married in Germany in 1892 and that he had 111 marks at the time. Later she inherited 2,890 marks and her husband 4,365 marks, all of which was put into the farm now in the husband's name.

Mrs. Willett charges her husband with desertion, saying that she has no place to go, as her husband has rented the farm to a son.

issued by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the labor board. Chairman Hooper said the "people are sick and tired" of strikes, and predicted there never would be another "successful strike of considerable proportions." He called upon both sides to "deal fairly," one with the other.

Holds Out Increase Hope.

An intimation upon which, it was contended in some quarters, union leaders might well base a recession from their present uncompromising stand was embodied in Mr. Hoover's reference to the likelihood of an increased pay for those involved if conditions warrant it later.

The labor board chairman made it clear he was not apologizing for any action of the board or owing to any major mistakes in the matter of wage decisions.

The summons to today's hearing, so far as the railway executives were concerned, was directed only at those of the two railroads which had been engaged out work in violation of the board's orders, but officials of other class 1 railroads—there are 201 in all—were asked to be present.

What to Do? What to Do?

The labor board assumed jurisdiction and called the contending parties to a public hearing at the Coliseum.

"A strike has been called. What has been done to prevent it? What can be done to prevent what concessions can be made?"

This was the substance of the proposition put up to carriers and employees last fall. Predictions last night were that a somewhat similar program would be followed today.

Among the labor leaders who have been cited to appear before the board today are those who signed the shop steward charter. There are William H. Johnston, International Association of Machinists; J. W. Kline, International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths; Drop Forgers and Helpers of America; J. A. Franklin, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers of America; J. J. Hynes, Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, International Alliance; James P. Noonan, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and Martin F. Ryan, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America.

Two Roads Out of It.

In contending that the shippers will not respond to a strike call in anything approaching full strength, railroad executives insist on the fact the Pennsylvania system cannot be expected to join a walkout because the workers are in independent negotiations with the company, and that the Erie will not be affected because it has most of its work let out to contract.

All efforts to obtain a statement from President Jewell last night were fruitless. His office at 4750 Broadway was guarded, but a reporter contrived to gain entrance.

"Will you accept any compromise on the demands in your ultimatum yesterday?" Mr. Jewell was asked.

"I am deaf, dumb, and blind," he replied, in obvious reference to the fact that the questions were typewritten. "Some one higher up most answer."

"Will you respond to the labor board's summons to appear at tomorrow's public hearing?" was another question.

The answer was the same.

"Earlier in the day Jewell had reported he would not attend the hearing 'unless you order protest.'

Mr. Jewell issued strike instructions, in which he warned against violence. The instructions provided for "necessary pickets."

Reports from Detroit last night indicated that maintenance of way men, so far as then checked, had voted 228,970 for a strike and 24,756 against. In addition, 1,288 were void and thrown out. About 75,000 ballots were yet to come in.

No Violence, Is Order.

It was reported last night that one definite assurance the labor board may be able to give the unions today is that the railroads do not contemplate asking for another reduction soon. It is said this is like the case of a man who, after a comprehension that just 1% cuts are a mere forerunner of others has, according to reports, been prevailed upon among the rank and file of rail workers.

HOW THE RAIL TRIANGLE STANDS TODAY

Below are statements issued last night by officials of the U. S. railroad labor board, the railroad executives and the unions affected in the strike peril. The statements, on the eve of the eleventh hour meeting which may decide today whether the big rail strike materializes tomorrow, apparently shows all sides of the rail triangle deadlocked on their original stands.

U. S. LABOR BOARD

Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board, late last night issued a long statement in which he declared that the board had no power to make any binding injunctions of any noteworthy magnitude in its recent decisions on rules and wages. The board has endeavored to conform to the requirements of the law and has established a schedule of wages higher than those prevailing, as a rule, in other industries. It is useless to repeat statistics on this subject.

"Let it be understood, however, that the board is convinced at this time that it has made a mistake in its recent rail decisions and intimated there would be no backing down at the meeting today. He held out hope in a suggestion that may be one important note of today's meeting when he said wages may be restored later if conditions warrant. His statement follows:

"The people of the United States are sick and tired of having railway transportation and traffic periodically interrupted by controversies between rail management and employees. It was this feeling which moved congress to enact the transportation act of 1920.

"The right to strike and the right to a private business is quite a different thing from any supposed right to choke and obstruct the flow of interstate commerce in this vast continental nation. Railway transportation is not a private business. It is essential to the very existence of our republic and to the individual well being of every citizen.

Harrassed by Fears.

"The able men representing the employers put their whole souls into their contentions and the questions they handle are of momentous importance. They are doubtless often harassed by the apprehension, as are all public servants, that their constituents may not fully understand and appreciate their efforts.

"It is evident to every student of the situation that the railway labor organizations have no just cause for serious complaint at the treatment they have received at the hands of Federal wage tribunals during the war period.

"The wages fixed by the recent decisions of this board will provide more than has been increased by a greater percentage than has the cost of living. In some instances the increase is strikingly notable.

Be Good Sports.

"With but slight exceptions the great carriers of the country have paid the wages fixed by the various succeeding government tribunals. Now that the decreases have come the employees should be good sports and accept the reductions of the American Federation of Labor.

"This message, in effect an ultimatum, demanded that the present wage scale be continued, that certain working rules which curtail overtime pay be modified, and that contracts by which some of the roads let out shop work beyond the jurisdiction of the railroad labor board be discontinued.

"Readoption of the regulation requiring time and a half be paid invariably for Sunday and holiday work was de-

"Your telegram conveys on behalf of the shop crafts an ultimatum that, unless the carriers turn their backs on the unorganized States, railroad board and its recent decision and accept your terms, the employees on behalf of whom you speak will on July 1—day after tomorrow—resort to force in the shape of a strike and will attempt to interrupt the orderly processes of transportation, on which the business, comfort, and welfare of the American public depend. Meanwhile, before consideration of your telegram could be had and this reply sent, the public press carries today the announcement that you have actually issued a strike order, effective 6 o'clock July 1.

"It is impossible within any reasonable limit of space to single out and reply to all the erroneous and misleading statements contained in your telegram.

"Suffice it to say there has been and is nothing in the conduct of the carriers to justify the act which you notify us you are about to commit. There can be no question about the facts.

No Surrender.

"The consequences of the rejection of this constituted governmental authority and obedience to your invitation to strike are too serious to permit to continue a charge on the producing and consuming public for transportation in excess of that which the government, through its labor board, has now declared to be just and fair.

"This unjust burden shall not be

COUNCIL MAKES 'BOULEVARDS' OF 5 MORE STREETS

Five new north side through streets, on which motorists will encounter boulevards, will be opened, rising and an ordinance which makes it possible for Chief of Police Fitzmorris to eliminate bus traffic from crowded State street, were the two big blows which the city council struck yesterday at traffic congestion.

The new boulevards, in the opinion of Ald. Agnew and Crowe of the Twenty-first ward, will make an end of small pace automobile traffic on the north side even in rush hours. The council grew so enthusiastic over the plan that the ordinances were passed without committee consideration, an unusual action on so important a matter.

The new "through streets" are: La Salle street, from Ohio street to Irving Park.

Ashland avenue, from Irving Park boulevard to the city limits.

Greenview avenue, between Irving Park boulevard and Diversey parkway, Ohio street, from North Michigan avenue to Orleans street.

Addison street, from Sheridan road to the city limits.

The street department is ordered to put "stop" signs at all intersections on these streets at once, and the penalty for failure to obey the signals is fixed at $2 to $5.

Ald. Wallace objected because he said it would complicate traffic and have a tendency to "bewilder" the motorist and increase the number of accidents. Ald. Bowles and Toman made other objections, but they submitted to the arguments of Ald. Agnew, Wallace, Hendricks, and other north side council men, who were solidly for a trial of the plan.

"Stop signs will be placed at these streets at once and a little care will prevent accidents and give north side motorists a chance to get somewhere," Ald. Agnew said.

"La Salle street is now practically

HARDING'S VIEWS ON SHIP SUBSIDY TOLD FARMERS

Washington, D. C., June 29.—President Harding at a dinner at the White House tonight presented to agricultural leaders of the country his reasons for seeking their support for the merchant marine legislation now in congress and discussed with them several phases of the agricultural credit situation.

According to Chairman Lasker of the shipping board, who addressed the dinner, it is his conclusion told newspaper men that he spoke for the President. Mr. Harding informed his guests that the proposed ship subsidy legislation was offered as a solution to a national problem and not to meet a class requirement.

The President was said to have declared that this country had reached a stage in its national life where anything that was overwhelming of interest to one group could not help being beneficial to all.

Shipping Vital to Farms.

Chairman Lasker quoted the chief executive as saying that it was no longer possible for the agricultural interests to be independent of overseas trade. That phase of the national life, Harding was reported to have declared, was as closely linked to world trade as the manufacturing industry.

Mr. Harding, it was said, asserted that the farmers could be assured of a continued and constant carriage of their surplus only through an American merchant marine. If there were no markets opened to the American manufacturer, he argued, that manufacturer could not take care of the product of the farms, adding that unless the manufacturing industry could be employed to the maximum, the agricultural industry would suffer.

Subsidy Held Proper Method.

The President was said to have pointed out also that the government had a responsibility to the nation to maintain the strength of the navy, and was engaged in ship subsidizing. Former arguments against embarking upon a subsidy no longer held good, he was quoted as saying, "because the war had forced the government to take proper care for the salvage of its investment.

Recent experience, he was declared to have added, had also demonstrated the need of merchant ships in time of war.

The farm credit matter was said to have been raised by the guests to the President, and he favored consolidation of the various bills before congress into one measure, the general purpose of which should be to give longer time to farmer borrowers than present commercial facilities afforded.

HENRICI'S

¶ Today—during all hours, from 7 A. M. to midnight—there will be served at Henrici's the freshest, choicest whitefish to be found in all America.

¶ These fish come to Henrici's from the chill depths of Lake Superior immediately after they are caught.

¶ All the delicious flavor relished by campers on old Superior's very shores is still retained for your delight. This fish, while cooked to your individual order, will be served to you as quickly as ready-cooked dishes are ordinarily served in other restaurants.

¶ You will find in many restaurants greater variety, but in hardly any restaurant as choice quality, of fish as is to be had at all times at Henrici's.

fresh fruit pastry

¶ A most healthful Summer dessert, at its best right now, is fresh fruit pastry—the product of Henrici ovens—such as cherry cake, blueberry cake and raspberry pie.

¶ Why not Henrici's for breakfast, luncheon, dinner or late supper today?

A NEW triumph astonishing Motorists everywhere

Continental engineers have done it—for Roamer alone. They have built America's star performer in a six cylinder motor. This new 12XD motor is the last word—more power, greater speed, vibration eliminated and surprising get-away.

A Marvel of Power, Quietness and Snappy Pick-Up

The design is a masterpiece of balance—you can't find a vibration point at any speed. Special Lynite aluminum pistons and special Huron metal connecting rods—no whip in the crankshaft at any speed.

(Chicago Tribune) Copyright 1922 by BERLIN, June 29.—A series of arrests have been made in the assassinations of the late Rethenau.

The Vossische Zeitung reported the details of the case in which a dozen of those of reichswehr, were men secret murder or those who were members of the brigade.

The National Bank of the Reich ordered an investigation of the case.

After the investigation was completed, the police arrested 12 men, including the murderer, attempting to shield the Bolsheviks.

The evidence showed that the national and internationalist tendencies of the German workers were also shown by the imperialists.

80 ROYALISTS ARRESTED FOR GERMAN PLOT

Gen. Ludendorff Named in Big Conspiracy.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune]
BERLIN, June 29.—Eighty monarchists have been arrested for complicity in the assassination of Foreign Minister Rathenau.

The Vossische Zeitung prints today the details of a sensational conference in which a dozen names, including those of Reichstag members and nobility, were mentioned as financing a secret murder organization. Most of these were members of the "Ehrhardt brigade."

The Nationalist party has ordered an immediate stop to the expansion of the law breaking monarchists.

As the Prussian police are displaying remarkable efficiency in rounding up the murderers, the monarchists are attempting to shift the blame by claiming Bolshevik assassins were implicated. The evidence of guilt, however, rebounds and redoubles against the nationalist and monarchist organizations. The German universities are also shown by the police investigation to be imperialistic, despite the democratic efforts of the American welfare associations which feed the students.

Suspect Has Ludendorff Letter.

State Commissioner Weissman informed THE TRIBUNE today that he is certain the Rathenau conspirators are nationalists or monarchists, many of them being members of the monarchist "Ehrhardt" brigade, which participated in the Kapp revolution in Berlin during 1920. One conspirator who was captured was a courier working with the Bavarian monarchists, and when taken carried letters from Field Marshal Ludendorff, Karl Helfferich, Herr von Jagow, and Count Westarp. Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of the former kaiser, is also mentioned in the charges against the monarchists.

Furthermore, the commissioner said members of the same conspiracy were responsible for the murder of Gustav Erzberger, and probably aided in the attack on Philip Scheidemann. Besides the letters from Marshal Ludendorff and Dr. Helfferich, the police obtained a mass of documents showing that a nation-wide plot was hatched by Bavarian monarchists to murder every prominent statesman, irrespective of party or religion, who tried in any way to reach an understanding with the allies for cooperation.

Take Owner of Death Auto.

According to the police big nationalist and monarchist leaders are implicated in the proposed reign of terror, including many officers and many university students.

Herr Guenther, the first conspirator arrested, is alleged to have provided the murder weapon and to have superintended the slaying. He is a reserve officer and a student at a law university and also acted as a courier for leading Berlin and Munich monarchists, among whom, according to the police, were Marshal Ludendorff and Dr. Helfferich.

Support Monarchs' Names.

Another who was arrested near Frankfurt-on-Oder is Ernst Techow, son of a former Berlin official, who is accused of having driven the car from which the assassination was made.

Today the monarchist press, and also Hugo Stinnes' Allgemeine Zeitung, in publishing an official statement, suppressed the fact that Herr Guenther was accused of being a courier for the reactionaries and do not mention the names of Gen. Ludendorff and others.

9 OAKLAND RAIDS NET 100 GALLONS OF RUM; 20 HELD

For the second time within two weeks a force of prohibition agents, under the direction of Joseph V. Callahan, last night descended on the district around 39th street and Indiana avenue. Nine places were raided, more than 100 gallons of whisky and moonshine was confiscated, and nearly a score of persons arrested.

The raids, in conjunction with the Oakland Business Men's association and the Committee of Fifteen, of which Samuel P. Thrasher is the superintendent, are another step in the campaign to clean up the district.

At 10 p. m. the saloons at 3718 and 3859 Cottage Grove, 758, 751, and 741 E. 39th street, and William J. Conroy's place at 35th and Grand boulevard. While these places were being searched another group left to raid flats at 3718 and 3834 Ellis avenue, 3941 Lake Park avenue, and a fourth on Calumet avenue.

While at the Calumet avenue address the raiders learned of an automobile which was transporting bootleggers two men and a large quantity of liquor was seized. In the raid on the flat at 3834 Ellis avenue the raiders confiscated a thirty gallon still and several barrels of mash. All those arrested will be arraigned today before the United States commissioners.

DUBIOUS OF RESULTS.

While accepting the invitation of President Harding for a joint conference with the miners at Washington to consider ways and means of ending the coal strike, Illinois operators in a statement last night asserted the meeting would accomplish nothing unless it adopted settlements by district as the basis of negotiations.

It is their contention that no national consideration and adjustment of the coal mine labor situation is at this time possible either through joint conferences of operators and miners or by a national arbitration commission.

As F. C. Honnor, secretary of the Illinois operators issued the statement, Illinois began to feel the first real pinch as a result of the strike, when retailers declared the prices of coal at the mines had jumped—to the maximum of $3.50 a ton set by Secretary Hoover a month ago—and could not be had in any quantity even at that price.

Under one of the provisions of this bill a county responsible for such an outbreak of violence as occurred at Herrin, Ill., last week, could be fined in a federal court $10,000 for each death.

The "Bloody Williamson" tragedy has had a good deal to do with the pressure brought on the committee in the last few days to report the bill favorably to the Senate, and it is expected to pass before the end of this session.

The Association for the Advancement of Colored People also has been extremely active. Representatives of this organization called on Senator Lodge, Republican leader of the senate, and urged him to speed the legislation.

PRESIDENT HAS MINING PLAN IF COAL MEN BALK

Holds It in Reserve at Tomorrow's Parley.

(By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—President Harding intends to give the coal operators and striking miners an opportunity to make peace voluntarily when they meet in conference with him Saturday. If that plan fails he will propose a compromise basis of negotiation.

What this basis might be administration officials were not prepared to state definitely, although it was hinted that it would probably be a compromise. The mine workers have said they were willing to negotiate either a national agreement or one covering the central competitive field. The operators have asserted they would negotiate only state or district agreements.

President to Open Conference.

The President will open the conference on Saturday and presumably will give the assurance he has promised informally that the operators and miners are at liberty to make an agreement fixing wages, and thereby directly affecting prices, without incurring disciplinary action for violation of the anti-trust laws. The conference will convene at 10 a. m. and at 1 p. m. the President is scheduled to leave for a holiday at Gettysburg and Marion, returning July 5.

Not only the miners but the operators will be numerously represented in the gathering. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and others of his organization will be on hand and nearly a score of operators. S. D. Warinner wired the President that he and two others would represent the anthracite operators. Alfred M. Ogle telegraphed from Indianapolis that he had communicated the invitation to the operators' association to the miners. He said he was confident the "response will be favorable." A dozen other operators wired acceptances.

At some stage of the negotiations the administration intends to press the desirability of taking steps to effect a permanent solution of the problem of coal production and distribution.

RUSSIA SHIFTS TACTICS; TO ASK FOR MATERIALS

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

THE HAGUE, June 29.—The Russian government, instead of demanding large sums of money when submitting its needs to the credit subcommittee tomorrow, intends to devote its requests to lists of materials and products necessary to the restoration of economic life in the country.

At the same time Russia will offer itself as the world's greatest immediate market for railroad, telegraph, factory, mining, bridge, and building supplies.

The British delegates see a hope of raising money for Russia from private sources through guarantees of all credits by the governments represented here.

Dickers for Private Agreements.

M. Litvinoff, owing to the solid front of the allied and neutral experts, is manifesting an eagerness to conclude private arrangements with previous owners of property in Russia. He has invited to meet to-morrow Leopold Ushquart, president of the British Association of Russian Creditors, next Monday to discuss a separate agreement for the restitution of property valued at $300,000,000.

Col. Boyle, representing the Shell and Royal Dutch interests, is here negotiating with the Russians for the restitution of oil properties valued at more than $50,000,000.

Urge Property Restitution.

Unless the Russians agree to satisfactory restitution or compensation for former property holders in Russia, only the most daring financial adventurer will invest in Russian enterprises, Sir Philip Lloyd Greame, chairman of the property subcommittee, told the Soviet delegates this morning.

The discussion was centered first on whether British money would be willing to restore economic life in the country, and second whether it was possible to find credits since the money was not controlled by the government. After the British, French and Italians had protested against Maxim Litvinoff's declaration that the property was owned by the "interests of the Russian republic" and was not controlled whether the previous holders of property were Russians or foreigners. M. Litvinoff receded, saying his remark was only made in passing.

M. Litvinoff asked for a list of the private property claims, which Sir Philip said would be difficult to Mr. Litvinoff promised to do everything possible to make satisfactory restitution and compensation.

BIELASKI'S STORY OF ESCAPE FROM MEXICAN JUNGLE

MEXICO CITY, June 29.—By the Associated Press.—A. Bruce Bielaski, former head of the investigation bureau of the American department of justice, who was kidnapped several days ago, but who escaped from his captors and returned to the U. S. City, said yesterday that his capture was made by amateurish bandits solely in the hope of obtaining a ransom; that it was not political in its inception nor an act of vengeance for his work while connected with the department of justice.

"My captors," said Mr. Bielaski, "were men of the low class, who, I am convinced, had no idea as to my identity, but picked out the occupants of a large automobile as possibly being persons of means who could be held for a handsome ransom.

Guards Were Careless.

I suffered the inconvenience of exposure, but was never harshly treated. My captors were extremely careless in guarding me, and I had many opportunities to escape prior to Wednesday morning, when I studied them and got away.

The most absurd period consequent upon my kidnapping was following my escape, when I walked a few miles in the darkness and through jungles to Tepetacal, where I was conducted by the federal commandant immediately dispatched a cavalry unit to Puntia Ixtlan to inform the garrison there.

More Americans Seized.

Washington, D. C., June 29.—Over night advices to the state department from Tampico served to change materially the situation in the Mexican oil region, resulting from the holding of ransom by a rebel band of forty American employees at the Aguaia camp of the Cortes Oil company, an American owned concern.

Consul Shaw reported that the rebel chief, Gómez, and his men left the camp Monday morning after twenty-four hours stay.

The rebels, dated yesterday, seemed to have cleared the air, but on its heels came another dispatch filed last night by the consul saying that the rebels had seized the Pecora camp of the British owned La Corona company and that about half a dozen Americans were among the eighty-five held there.

Demand Ransom July 2.

No further advices came during the day. In demanding 5,000 pesos for the surrender of the Pecora property and employees the rebels fixed July 2 as the date by which payment must be made.

Whether the ransom demanded at the camp was paid is not stated.

The state department promptly instructed Chargé Summerlin at Mexico City to make representations in regard to adequate protection for any Americans held in connection with the new raid on the British company.

Beyond these new representations to the Oregon government there was no indication the state department intended to move at present.

Advice showed that the Oregon government was moving additional troops into the Tampico district for the evident purpose of suppressing rebel or bandit activities. It is generally assumed that sufficient troops will be distributed about the district to prevent such raids as those of Gómez.

SCHOOL TO TRAIN BUILDING BOSSES OPENS; 13 TRADES

Landis Committee Moves to Supply Dearth.

To cope with the increasing shortage of building trade mechanics in the thirteen open shop building trade unions, the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award last night opened a trade school at 218 North Clark street.

All Branches Taught.

All branches of the thirteen trades will be taught by competent professors and instructors.

The school is expected to fill a long felt want in providing competent apprentices, educating journeymen in the finer branches of their profession, and in teaching apprentices so that an adequate supply of workers may be obtained to handle the tremendous amount of work entailed by Chicago's third greatest building boom.

The opening class last night consisted of twenty journeymen plumbers.

Cooperating with the citizens' committee in making the plumbing course a success is a committee of successful Landis award plumbing contractors headed by John A. Corboy.

Union Painter Arrested.

Summoned to quell a fight between craftsmen working under the Landis award on a building at West Randolph and North Clark streets, yesterday afternoon, police arrested Walter Wartenhaus, 830 West 34th street, a union painter, on a charge of intimidation. E. Martin, 1623 Byron street, a carpenter, told police that Wartenhaus threatened to beat him if he continued to work there.

CUTS GRANTED IN PERSONAL TAX BY ASSESSORS

Certain reductions in personal property assessments were announced yesterday with the completion of the North Town field books by the board of assessors.

Harold F. McCormick, head of the International Harvester company, whose estate was valued at $715,000, was granted a reduction of $50,000, while no reductions were scheduled on the property of his former wife, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, whose personal estate at 1000 Lake Shore drive was valued at $50,000.

A reduction of $50,000 was placed upon the property of Cyrus H. McCormick, 50 East Huron street, and that of May Virginia McCormick was valued at $480,000. F. G. Logan, 1160 Lake Shore drive, was granted a reduction of $25,000, and C. H. Wacker, 33 Bellevue place, $5,000.

DRUG USER GIVEN LIFE FOR MURDER OF HARRY WEMETT

Harry Deyo, alias Wilson, was sentenced to life in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Michael J. McKinley after he had pleaded guilty to murdering Harry Wemett, sales manager for the R. & J. Dick company, 63 West Madison street. Wemett's body, with a revolver clamped in a crippled hand, was found lying on a cot in the basement under the offices. Deyo said that he committed the murder while he was under the influence of drugs.

BY-PRODUCTS OF OIL UNSALABLE, GASOLINE SOARS

Gasoline prices have been constantly advancing since March. In that month it sold for 20 cents a gallon. Within the next two months motorists were to pay 25 cents a gallon. Ten days ago came another jump. One company raised the price 2 cents a gallon.

Yesterday all companies had followed suit and gasoline sold everywhere at 25 cents a gallon. This despite the fact that oil companies are reported to have the largest stocks in reserve in their history. The government bureau of mines report the largest surplus of gasoline in the history of the oil industry.

Gas Alert!

Yesterday a TRIBUNE reporter was sent out to find out why the increase. He found that the government investigators had preceded him.

A majority of the companies blamed economic conditions—the big demand for gasoline and the bigger demand for by-products of crude oil.

Officials of the Standard Oil company said they had raised their prices simply to allow their competitors to continue in business.

Profit at 23 Cents.

"Economic conditions forced our competitors to raise prices," said a high official of the Standard Oil company. "Doing business on a different basis we were not so much affected as they have been. When the last 2 cent increase came through, we were still making a profit at 23 cents a gallon. They were losing money at 23 cents. It was really a question of whether we should raise our price and let live policy" or sell gasoline at the lowest price we could make a profit and let our competitors go hang. In the first case we stood to make a good profit, in the second we forced our competitors to do business at a loss."

"For various reasons we decided to follow the crowd. In each of the last three increases we have decided to raise our price. Instead of the crowd following the little red tank wagon of the Standard Oil company, the tank wagon is in the parade."

Gas Users Pay.

"Gasoline must pay what the by-products less. If the public demands gasoline and refuses to buy the by-products, they have to pay more for gasoline. The oil companies' advertisers asked me the same question as you did. They had an idea that collusion between rival oil companies forced the price up. We showed them that was not true."

JAZZ STYLING FOR MEN IN 1922.
Philadelphia, Pa., June 29.—"Conservative jazz" will be the popular motif in men's clothing for next year.

Gasoline, the sluggish market for crude oil products, and high storage costs.

"It is true that there are large stocks of gasoline on hand," he said. "But it is also true that the demand for gasoline next four months will be heavier than ever before. While the oil is from 25 to 25 per cent larger than a year ago, it is also true that the demand for gasoline is from 10 to 20 per cent greater."

Gasoline Up with Demand.

"Last year the oil business was in a disorganized condition. Many companies did not know whether they were doing business at a profit or not. As a result when the demand increased prices increased."

H. T. Snell, an official of the Texas Oil company, blamed the big demand for gasoline, the sluggish market for crude oil products, and high storage

WHO GOT THE DIFFERENCE?

Frightened by the public resentment that has followed the death of Mrs. Small, the chief newspaper organ of the Black Hand conspiracy responsible for her death has raised the cry of "dirty politics." —Chicago Herald-Examiner.

This melodrama of Black Hand conspiracy, with its attempt to hide the real issue in the shadow of a private sorrow, reaches the lowest level of Hearst's half tacit up to date, and that is saying the limit. The bereavement that has come to Mr. Small and his family is genuine and severe, bringing the sincere sympathy from all the state for their loss. That sympathy the Hearst organs and city hall politicians now propose to pervert, if they can, and to capitalize it for their own benefit. But the pathetic death of Mrs. Small in no way alters any fact of Mr. Small's public career or answers the question raised by his conduct as treasurer and left unanswered still.

The same may be said of the verdict of not guilty in the trial for conspiracy at Waukegan. That has been touted by the Hearst newspapers and by the politicians of the Lundin-Thompson-Small faction as a "vindication."

But the question which the taxpayers of Illinois want answered remains unanswered. That question is this: The notes of the packers for state money loaned to them during Mr. Small's term as treasurer called for interest as high as 7 per cent. That interest was paid. But the state got 2 per cent. What became of the difference? The amount unaccounted for is at least $600,000.

What became of it? The people of Illinois did not get it. Did it evaporate?

Mr. Small was treasurer. He was in complete charge of the state money. He could have answered this question, on his oath, in court. He did not answer and the state could not compel him.

A jury found that the state had failed to prove that Mr. Small took the money. It brought in a verdict of not guilty.

The question which the people of Illinois would like answered remains unanswered. If that question is not left in abeyance at the present moment it is because of the effort of ghouls to hide it behind false charges of conspiracy and hypocritical pretenses of sentiment. The law officers of the state who have performed their duty and the press which is performing its duty will not be blinded into silence and inaction. If the truth can be dug up in spite of destroyed records and testimony withheld it will be brought to light in spite of poison gas and smoke screens of hypocrisy. If possible the money of the state will be found and recovered for the state. But at present the main question remains unanswered. Where is the million dollars of interest paid on the packers' notes for money of the state loaned them during the treasurership of Mr. Small?

Where is it? Who got it?

WHAT WE WANT IS BETTER TRANSPORTATION.

The All-Chicago council, representing 105 civic organizations, has endorsed the proposed new transportation ordinance submitted to the local transportation committee last Monday. The committee may now be expected to put in a busy summer on the plan for municipal ownership of the present traction facilities at a valuation of $245,000,000 and for improvements estimated at $100,000,000 additional.

That is a possible expenditure of $345,000,000. For what? Largely, it would appear, for the satisfaction of advocates of municipal ownership. That is the outstanding feature of the program as it now appears. Definite provision for improved transportation is secondary. Proposals for a subway which would be the backbone of a rapid transit service are put aside with the casual suggestion that they are made the subject of a separate ordinance.

It appears to us that the committee is ignoring the one thing most vital to Chicago—rapid transit. It is entirely overlooking the lessons in transportation which have been learned in such great cities as New York and London. The fundamental issue of rapid transportation is being clouded by talk of municipal ownership. Unless provision is definitely made for municipal ownership to mean development of rapid transit facilities it is merely a technicality. The mere transfer of title from private hands to the municipality means nothing in the improvement of service.

Worse than that, there is a possibility that city purchase of the present traction lines as they now are valued would be a grave error. According to John Steele, this Tribune's London correspondent, the British metropolis stopped the expansion of surface car lines some ten years ago. The tubes for rapid transit over long distances, supplemented with an extensive system of motor bus lines in intermediate territory, is eliminating surface cars as a factor in London transportation.

The same can be done here. A tube system similar to that of London could be constructed in Chicago at reasonable rate. By sinking shafts 75 to 100 feet deep, and driving tubes, each one to carry one track, in the sandy soil of Chicago we would have a subway at the lowest possible cost, disregarding street limitations, providing stations principally at centers of congestion, safe, silent, and easy of operation. With a system of buses for collecting and distributing traffic with transfers to the subway, such as is in operation in London, it would not be necessary to have the subway stations closer than one every half mile outside the loop. That would assure speed, and the buses would assure comfort. That is the successful system in London. It is a system which has virtually eliminated surface cars.

If Chicago really desires to develop a rapid transit service it must work along similar lines. If it does work along such lines the surface car property will be deteriorated. Why, then, should the city assume ownership at a high figure merely to wreck the property. And why should it put itself in a position where, if it does provide rapid transit, it will wreck its own property?

New York has had a somewhat similar experience with reduction in use of surface cars due to subway development. Some of its former surface lines are almost abandoned. We would like to see many of Chicago's abandoned if in their place we could have rapid transit over long distances in tubes and mobile transit over short distances in buses. It is a possibility which ought to be taken into consideration before the city is tied up to a $345,000,000 program along other lines.

THE RAIL STRIKE SITUATION.

Strike orders calling out 400,000 railroad shopmen and all the Pullman shop workers Saturday morning in protest against the railroad labor board's recently announced reduction of wages seem to make the beginning of the strike a certainty. It is in doubt. The roads appear willing to meet the issue. They say they can continue to operate indefinitely without a full force of shop labor. The unions apparently believe that present demand for mechanics throughout the country, particularly in the building trades and outside the railroads, will make it impossible for the roads to recruit unorganized labor to take the place of the strikers.

Time, of course, will tell which side is right in its forecast. But in the meantime the country is in danger of suffering a serious check to the rising tide of prosperity, regardless of which side eventually wins the battle. It is a discouraging outlook.

The shop men's union has something on its side. The railroad labor board which has fixed the wage cut and rearranged working rules under the provisions of the transportation act, is dependent upon public opinion for the enforcement of its decisions.

It is now seeking to enlist that opinion to induce the shop workers to accept the wage cut without a battle. But the board is equally dependent upon public opinion to enforce its decisions that the railroads should not let out their repair work under contract in order to escape regulation. The roads, which desire public opinion to disapprove the strike, have not been so amenable to the board's verdict on contract work that their hands are entirely clean.

To be sure, the Burlington, Santa Fe, and Southern Pacific have recently announced the cancellation of their contracts for shop work, but that announcement followed by a considerable period the board's ruling in the Indiana Harbor Belt line case that such contracting was a violation of the transportation act. It has the appearance of being offered as a somewhat delayed sop to prevent the strike. Only nineteen out of 201 class I railroads have had such contracts, but they indicate a tendency to which the shop men can properly object. Such objection need not necessarily take the form of a strike, but in proportion to the moral strength which it gives the strikers it should indicate to the railroads that the transportation act is designed to work two ways, and fair dealing by the roads is essential to its operation as fair dealing and reason to the workers.

SETTLE THE COAL STRIKE.

"Coal is going to be mined in sufficient quantities to prevent any fuel famine next winter." That statement is attributed in Washington dispatches to a high government official. Presumably it represents the opinion and decision of President Harding. It sounds comforting, but it is insufficient. If it does represent the decision of the President it means more as revealing a determination to settle the strike than for the specific assurance it contains.

The strike now has progressed to a point where the question of a fuel famine is not postponed until next winter. It is imminent, and the time to be upon us before even a householder kindles his winter fire. Government officials declare the supply will be at the danger point by July 1. If extraordinary production is not started by that time factories throughout the country will be in danger of being closed, trains taken off, and the present revival of prosperity given a paralytic blow. Grain shipments and rural prosperity will be the next thing to suffer. Public utilities, including gas, electricity, and transportation, will begin to be pinched at about the same time. The domestic consumer will be the last and least to suffer, although his will may be expected to be loudest and longest.

The point to be emphasized, and which we believe the President now is realizing, is that the strike must be settled immediately. Certainly that a crisis must come when the country was consuming twice as much coal weekly as it was producing to fuel either the miners or operators to a settlement. Each expected eventually to profit by the pinching of the consumer. Bitterness and hatred heightened as time went on. Still nothing was done. The murder of twenty-one men in southern Illinois took place. That started the authorities into consideration of the matter. One man and the wounding of another in Ohio, the dynamiting of a trolley in West Virginia, the murder of a miner in Pennsylvania. The trouble is just beginning. It should end as promptly.

The President has power to bring the miners and operators into conference. He will be supported by public opinion in putting sufficient pressure upon them to force an agreement. If they still refuse he will be supported by public opinion in opening the mines and providing adequate protection for any man who desires to work. The situation is to be saved such pressure must be exerted at once.

No such sane and reasonable adjustment will be possible in this emergency as would have been possible had negotiations been started three months ago, but much suffering, and probably many violent deaths and much destruction of property can still be prevented.

The operators have sold off their stocks of low grade coal. The miners have expended their savings. The country's reserve is so low that now even the great excess of miners and miners in the country can all be put to production, and work will be regular and profitable for several months. That will leave the situation unimproved next year, with the possibility of another strike. The time to correct the situation is temporarily past. But the time to protect the country from a fuel famine is not past. It is upon us. Government action of the most emphatic kind is demanded at once.

PARTY LEADERS SHY AT O. K. OF CON CON'S WORK

Campaign for Adoption to Begin in September.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The campaign for the ratification of the proposed new state constitution, which will be voted on Dec. 12 next, probably will not begin in earnest until Sept. 12, when the members of the convention will meet to consider the document. That it will be a hard campaign for the friends of the constitution was indicated yesterday in the attitude of political leaders in Chicago.

That attitude was one of hesitation to approve the measure, touched with indifference as to its fate. The work of the convention needs interpreters who will point out in a specific way how it touches the life of the state and how it permits improvements impossible under the present constitution. On the whole the two and a half years' work of the convention is said to have fair prospects of ratification. It appears to be regarded as a compromise in many important features, generally conservative and yet in tune with modern needs.

Thompson Reserves Decision.

Mayor Thompson said he would reserve his decision on the new constitution until he has read it carefully, but he indicated that he will not approach its perusal in a friendly mood.

"Since the convention began," he said, "Delegate Michelson made a motion that a copy of the document be mailed to every voter in the state nine days before its submission to the electorate."

"That motion was voted down. I don't like that. It seems to me a basic law is important enough to put in the hands of every man who is to vote on it."

Corporation Counsel Ettelson said he wanted to read the constitution before announcing an opinion of it.

Other Leaders Noncommittal.

Charles S. Deneen said he had not given the document sufficient consideration to express an opinion. Attorney General Edward J. Brundage was also noncommittal.

Martin J. O'Brien, chairman of the managing committee of the Democratic party of Cook county, a member of the campaign committee of which Henry L. Green is chairman, and that will have the job of submitting the constitution for ratification, said that it was a pretty good constitution. He could not commit his party, however, to any definite view.

"It contains one or two things," said Mr. O'Brien, "that I would prefer to have omitted. However, there are several omissions which I regret. But in the preparation of a document of this size and importance of the constitution one must be prepared to accept compromises."

"I fought for a provision that would have vested in the legislature power to levy and collect taxes without restrictions. A majority preferred the system of assessing by valuation. Nevertheless, we compelled the adoption of sections that provide for an income tax on revenues derived from stocks, bonds and other intangible property as well as a general income tax upon all incomes."

"In my judgment these sections will eventually force an owner of intangibles to bring them into the open for assessment, and thus the burden of the home owner may be reduced."

Important Point for Chicago.

"Chicago's most important gain is found in the section which empowers the city to issue bonds in any sum that may be necessary to purchase or construct public utilities to be owned and operated by the people. This is what Chicago has been demanding for many years. With that power the people of Chicago can settle their transportation and all other questions relating to public utilities as they may arise. In many other respects the constitution as it has been adopted is an improvement upon the existing basic law."

The revenue and judiciary features of the new constitution caused the greatest trouble in the convention and probably will be the debating ground of the campaign.

MOTHERS, BABIES SAVED FROM HEAT —IN MEMORIAM!

Relief for Living Is Tribute to the Dead.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Two memorial gifts were received yesterday for the Algonquin camp fund which readers of THE TRIBUNE have generously helped maintain for the service of the city of Chicago.

No details were given other than "in memory of" but the gifts are received as a most beautiful and appropriate way of expressing love for friends who have passed into the land where there is neither hunger nor sorrow. To brighten the life of some mother who through illness or lack of financial resources is unable to travel, near or far, or get a respite from the heat and grime and daily toll incident to such a condition, is better than to build a marble mausoleum.

Do It Now.

It is better to give the kiddies a chance to see the flowers and trees and running streams of the country than to bring flowers after their eyes are closed.

A large contingent of mothers and children from the stock yards district will go to camp today. Five acres immediately adjoining Camp Algonquin have been purchased recently and a dormitory built after the pattern of the dormitories already erected by THE TRIBUNE and other co-operators in the camp, is ready for occupancy. It will be called Harlow Arden and memory of the late Harlow Arden, a member of the well known merchant, author, and president of the World's Columbian exposition in Chicago in 1893. Harlow Arden and Camp Algonquin will be directed by the same superintendent and will virtually be one camp.

Need is Great.

THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund has also received several donations from friends. THE TRIBUNE is in constant receipt of appeals for help and words of thanks for help given. The need is so great we feel justified in urging the prompt and generous support of TRIBUNE readers.

NAN MAN ACCUSED OF ATTACK.

Ignatius Sovon, 1013 N. Marshall avenue, who escaped after he had attacked Caspera Kauhupu, was arrested yesterday by Sergt. Sennett and Balata and identified by the latter.

Calumet's "Rising" Business

The Calumet Baking Powder people—the largest manufacturers of their kind in the world—have given serious thought to the matter of loose-leaf equipment.

They now use TARCO LOOSE LEAF almost exclusively.

They've proved that there is economy in phoning Superior 6405 when they have loose-leaf needs. They know that the TARCO equipment they get invariably delivers the longest wear per dollar of cost.

Why not have a factory representative call on YOU? Phone, Superior 6405.

QUESSE BOMBERS, REFUSED A NEW TRIAL, TO APPEAL

Court Raises Band of Each to $7,500.

Their plea for a new trial denied yesterday by Judge John A. Swanson, attorneys for William F. Quesse, president of the Flat Janitors' union, and nine codefendants, recently convicted of conspiracy to bomb and extort by a jury, and sentenced to indeterminate terms in the penitentiary, indicated their intention to carry the case to the Appellate court.

Judge Swanson granted Attorney Everett Jennings, chief of counsel for the convicted unions, until Sept. 15 to file a bill of exceptions. At the request of Special Prosecutor Edwin Raber, the court increased the bands of each defendant from $5,000 to $7,500.

"Big Three" Jury Goes Slowly.

No progress was made in the selection of the jury which is to try Fred "Freckle" Maden, Timothy "Big Tim" Murphy, Cornelius "Con" Shea, Daniel McCarthy, and others for alleged conspiracy which resulted in the death of Policeman Terrence Lyons.

Although nearly 500 veniremen have been examined, and a sixth special venire summoned, but two prospective jurors have been tentatively accepted.

Possibility that they will be asked to impose the death penalty upon the labor leaders on evidence much of which is said to be circumstantial has caused many veniremen to be excused.

Mahoney Jury Still Out.

After several hours of deliberations, the jury before Judge William A. Dever, which heard the case of attempted bribery of a state's witness charged against Frank J. Mahoney, who was 21st street, had failed to arrive at a verdict and was locked up for the night.

Mahoney, a member of the Electricians' union, was indicted as a result of a story told by Oscar H. Olsen, 837 West Garfield boulevard, prospective member of the jury which disagreed in the Simon O'Donnell labor graft trial. Olsen asserted that Mahoney called at his home and offered him $1,000 to qualify as a juror and hold out for acquittal of O'Donnell.

CROOKS JARRED STRAIGHT

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe was enthusiastic yesterday over the progress being made by prosecutors in his office in conviction of labor officials, crooked jurors, and slingers and bombers aligned with labor organizations.

Wednesday, when a jury in Judge Manus Kavanagh's court voted guilty verdicts against seven labor slingers, the total of those convicted reached twenty-seven.

"The conviction of these crooked labor officials has been a great victory for the city," said Mr. Crowe. "There isn't a doubt in the world that the big building boom which Chicago is now experiencing is due directly to the investigations, indictments, and convictions of those labor officials and slingers."

The people have come to realize that they can do construction work without having to "kick in" to crooked business agents, and as a result I don't think there has been a shake-down in months."

NAN MAN ACCUSED OF ATTACK.

Ignatius Sovon, 1013 N. Marshall avenue, who escaped after he had attacked Caspera Kauhupu, was arrested yesterday by Sergt. Sennett and Balata and identified by the latter.

NAB ACCOUNTANT TRYING NEW CAR AS EMBEZZLER

Frank W. Kemp, 4725 Bryn Mawr avenue, a two south side codefendant, confessed yesterday to embezzling $2,577, when arrested on a warrant just as he was putting a new automobile through its paces.

"I wanted my wife and children to have small luxuries and an automobile," he is quoted as having told

Sergt. Harold B. Seymour and Jeremiah Lynch. "My salary wouldn't stand the strain."

The complaint was signed by Alfred J. Parker, secretary-treasurer of the New City Car company and the Life Poultry Transit company, 431 South Dearborn street. Kemp's books are being checked to ascertain the exact amount of the shortage.

FINDS ON GIRL'S CHARGES.

Joseph Marowski, 1856 Fullerton avenue, was fined one year by the Cook County Court for having caused young girls in Lincoln park.

He got a physician and the victims were revived.

Girl, 9, Drags Mother from Gas Filled Cellar

Mary Cook, 9 years old, 372 William street, River Forest, yesterday saved her mother and sister from death.

Mary discovered her mother and sister in the cellar unconscious from sewer gas. It required all of her strength to drag them to the doorway. Then she telephoned to her father, William Cook, in the Kemper building, Chicago.

He got a physician and the victims were revived.

AT LAST—A Perfect Percolator!

Coffee in less time than it takes the ordinary percolator to start

THE Manning-Bowman electric percolator makes coffee quicker because the heat is applied directly to the liquid. An improved heating unit confines the heat right where it is needed—no waste heat, no waste current, economical to operate.

The Manning-Bowman is absolutely protected from damage if the percolator boils dry. An automatic current-control cuts off the current before the device can be damaged.

It is the only automatic switch on any percolator that can be reset from the outside. There is no taking apart or coming back to the factory for repairs. A simple turn of a lever at the bottom of the percolator and it is instantly ready for use again. And it will not shut off the current as long as there is water in the pot. It never works at the wrong time and never fails at the right time.

Coffee in a Manning-Bowman begins to percolate almost as soon as the current is turned on. There is no nerve-racking noise of percolating because the Manning-Bowman has an improved, silent valve.

Ask at electric shops, department or hardware stores, jewelry or novelty shops to see the Manning-Bowman percolator—in several sizes, styles and sets, range style and electric; also ask to see the complete line of Manning-Bowman household helps—electric grills, reversible toasters, irons and other devices, and the famous Hotakold vacuum temperature-retaining vessels.

SUNOCO

Save this third dollar

Do you know that every third dollar spent on running the average car goes for repairs?

Do you know that three-fourths of all these repair costs are due to one cause—IMPROPER lubrication?

These are facts—proven time after time by careful investigations. And there's only one conclusion to be drawn from them—

Ordinary, or compounded motor oils, have failed to make good.

They are not meeting the lubricating demands of present-day engines.

That's why thousands of car owners today are turning to SUNOCO Motor Oil. It's an fundamentally different from ordinary oil as watch-spring steel is different from boiler-plate.

SUNOCO is distilled, re-distilled and subjected to patented, super-refining processes that give it lubricating qualities and characteristics found in no other oils.

That's why SUNOCO eliminates carbon troubles—gives greater engine power and gasoline mileage—protects bearings against friction—prolongs the life of your car.

Why not use SUNOCO and save the large part of "that third dollar?"

Any SUNOCO dealer will give you the right type for your car. He follows the "SUNOCO Lubrication Guide."

Phone or write us for the name of the SUNOCO dealer near you.

COLLINS MEN SEIZE FORT OF DUBLIN REBELS

Four Courts Building Is Stormed at Night.

Damage is more perceptible, as yet it is not serious.

In the meanwhile republicans have seized upwards of fifty buildings in the heart of the city, and other business premises and residences at strategic points in the outlying districts. From these posts, protected by sandbags, snipers are keeping the Free State troops at bay. A great proportion of the casualties in the present fighting comes from this source. Innocent pedestrians are the principal sufferers.

Less than 5 per cent of the total casualties have occurred from the fighting around the Four Courts. It is not certain what the republican casualties are, if any, in the mammoth law building, but persons who have come from it assert that the heavy walls have prevented any so far.

Success Secret Tunnel.

It is increasingly evident that there is a secret exit from the courts, and the knowledge that there has been engineering activity at night would indicate that a long tunnel was constructed during the last two months. Local engineers with republican sympathies are believed to have assisted in digging this for use in just such a siege as is now on.

When the destruction of the building has reached a point making evacuation necessary it is believed that the garrison will filter out. The time may be hastened by the arrival of heavier guns from the Free State artillery. Major A. J. Allen, who was Major Gen. McNeill's adjutant in the black and white of Dublin, is in command. His arrival with reinforcements is expected for the purpose of cleaning up the nests of the Republicans. He has been on his honeymoon, but his friends say he would not hesitate to abandon that for a fight.

The telephone service continues suspended and no inbound trains are permitted, while a mild censorship has been applied to the local press.

Dublin Streets Deserted.

Warned by the casualties among civilians yesterday, Dublin today curbed its curiosity. Crowds no longer gathered on the corners to gossip or to read the papers.

The streets were comparatively deserted. Pedestrians with their hands out of their pockets hurried along close to the building lines. The ladies fearfully sat at each passing automobile for if it contained Free State it was sure to draw fire from some building in the immediate vicinity. Some stores closed voluntarily, and others through occupation by small details of republicans.

Delivery service was virtually suspended by all the shops, and even some hospitals were without supplies until they sent after them with their own transportation. The theaters are closed, as are other amusement places.

Rich Flea Ireland.

The night staff of the telegraph office was relieved from duty, resulting in a vast accumulation of press copy for the traffic force arriving in the morning. The censor was on the job there, but there did not appear to be any interference with stories for the United States.

The well to do continue to leave Ireland in large numbers for England. These include many English and a large number of Irish landlords.

The main post office in O'Connell street has been closed and the telegraph office is now in the Four Courts. All communications at any minute. A large detachment of Free State troops is guarding it. Twice lorries containing republicans stopped at the building, but they drove away without either side firing any shots or communicating with each other.

Structure Slowly Crumbled.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] DUBLIN, June 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—The insurgent republican forces under Rory O'Connor have been able to hold Four Courts for two days against all the attacks of the provisional government. Throughout today a slow bombardment continued, and gradually sections of the splendid edifice were seen to crumble away.

Rory O'Connor's Dublin brigade, comprising upwards of 4,000 men, had shown activity that indicates it is working on a prearranged plan. Last night and today bands of irregulars occupied various premises which they could hold and from which they could do maximum damage by sniping.

All over the city and its approaches snipers operated from the strategic positions. They command O'Connell bridge and have maintained it in a wind-swept overpass College Green.

They took possession of the big building, the gas company in O'Connell street, connecting O'Connell bridge with Brunswick street. But every where they are being countered by regulars, who also are maintaining many points of vantage.

De Valera Backs Rebels.

While the majority of the people of Dublin command the action of the provisional government, the republicans are circulating confidential statements, and, though O'Connor is not supposed to be in any way responsible to the De Valera party, it is evident from the statement issued by Mr. De Valera to-day that he has that party's sympathy.

No accurate estimate of the casualties to Ireland, the second one being that which goes to Belfast. The one is in Ireland, the other in communication with Ireland. It is being kept up through Belfast.

The Electric Era

THE electric era in the life of mankind, despite its magnitude, has only just begun. Contemplate—back over the last ten years:

The growth in electric lighting
The growth in the use of electric power
The growth in the use of electric transportation
The growth in the use of the telephone and telegraph

What was once a novelty and a luxury is now a necessity. Today no city could live without electric light, the telephone, the telegraph, or the electric railway, all of which are dependent on electric current.

Popular demand for electric service has increased thirty per cent in the last three years, and engineers tell us electricity is still in its infancy. The owners of properly safeguarded bonds of electric public utilities can feel assured their investment rests on a public necessity which is becoming more vital from year to year.

Bonds for Safe Investment—In common with all business institutions, the Harris Trust & Savings Bank is harmed directly or indirectly by unwise speculation and "wildcat" promotions. In a series of advertisements of which this is the Eighth, we are trying to picture to the public, out of an experience of 40 years, what we have found to be safe investments.

CLAMOR AGAINST SEAWAY LAID TO "POWER TRUSTS"

Fear Cheap Rates, Is Toronto View.

BY JOSEPH PIERSON.

Toronto, Ont., June 28.—[Special.]—The struggle of contending interests in Canada over the St. Lawrence waterway appears here to be not so much a fight for the existence of the present seaports of Montreal and Quebec as a struggle between two sets of rival systems of water power development.

The cause of the difficulty is a by-product. The cause itself, the great project which is proposed to bring ocean freighters into the ports of the Great Lakes, seems to ride high and unassassable above the bitterness of the minor conflict.

It is a struggle of the huge private power-monopolies of Quebec province against the public undertakings of Ontario. To what extent this reflects the energetic opposition of New York, where the large Elsted water power interests are concentrated, to the St. Lawrence project cannot be confirmed here.

Sells Power at Cost.

Until 1910 Canada was free ranging for private water power interests. Then, under authority of Dominion parliament acts, the Ontario hydro-electric power commission was formed. Today it is selling at cost more than 300,000 horse power to 275 municipalities and numerous corporations. It will add 180,000 horse power before Jan. 1.

This commission erected and maintains more than 3,000 miles of high voltage transmission wires. It has slashed the lighting rates to Toronto consumers from 9 cents a kilowatt hour and 25 cents a month meter charge under private monopoly to 2½ cents kilowatt hour and no meter charge. Toronto now is paying the commission $20 to $22 a year for the commission $1.75.

LIQUOR SELLING CHARGE STIRS DRUGGISTS' MEET

Springfield, Ill., June 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—State Senator John J. Boehm of Chicago this afternoon led an ineffectual attack upon S. L. Antonow of Chicago, whom the Illinois Pharmacists Association elected president, charging him with graft in liquor permits. After failing to prevent the election, Senator Boehm dramatically declared he was done with the organization and would send in his resignation.

The convention was plunged into confusion by the senator's charge. President Raith rapped for order, but was ignored. "Not a bit of it," yelled his defense.

This association can trust me. I'll stake my honor that I'll not bring you into disrepute."

Senator Boehm named William Prizan of Chicago as candidate against Antonow, but the balloting showed Antonow elected by a vote of 71 to 21.

Announcement of the vote brought another expression from the senator. "I'll not belong to an association," he cried, "that has crookedness at the head of it."

MRS. HENROTIN, WOMAN LEADER, IS DEAD IN EAST

Long, Useful Career Is Ended at 80.

Mrs. Charles Henrotin, twice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, social worker, and society woman, died yesterday morning at the home of her son Edward, at Cherry Plain, N. Y., after an illness of several months. Her body will be brought here Sunday and buried in Rosehill cemetery, with services at 4:45 o'clock.

Born in Portland, Me., in 1842, a daughter of Edward Byam Martin, she came to Chicago in 1868, where she married Charles Henrotin, a well known broker and banker, who also served as Belgian consul for a number of years. Mr. Henrotin died in 1914.

Led Active Life.

During the Columbian exposition here Mrs. Henrotin was vice president of the congress auxiliary. During the latter years of her life she interested herself in the upbuilding of the Illinois Industrial School for Girls, and was president also of the Woman's Trade Union League of America.

So widespread was Mrs. Henrotin's fame and influence, however, that she was accorded the Order of the Palm from the French and the Académique and the Legion of Honor by the Belgian governments.

Society Women in Eulogy.

Mrs. Herman Landauer, Mrs. E. F. Langworthy, Mrs. James W. Morrison, and many other society and club women eulogized the life and activities of Mrs. Henrotin when told of her death.

She is survived by three sons, Edward, Charles, and Norris, all of whom live in the east; a sister, Miss Maude Martin and a brother, Byam Martin of Chicago.

Forgery Proof Permits Cut Liquor Withdrawals

Washington, D. C., June 29.—Withdrawals of tax paid distilled spirits averaging 1,996,000 gallons daily in May represented a fall off of nearly a million gallons as compared with the same month last year, according to reports issued today by Prohibition Commissioner Hayes. The figures, he said, indicate that the source of real liquor supply is drying up through counter checks, forgery proof permits, and other precautions.

TAX DODGERS TO BENEFIT BY SHIP SUBSIDY: BORAH

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(Special.)—The administration ship subsidy program is "a perfectly vicious policy of relieving a certain class from taxation," according to a statement today by Senator Borah (Idaho). Senator Borah spoke on the renewed activity among Republicans for a change in rules making it less difficult to apply a closure rule ostensibly to limit debate on the tariff.

"The real object of closure at this point is to prevent the Senate from so much activity in regard to it is to assist putting through the ship subsidy," Senator Borah said. "That measure will not stand discussion."

"It has been fearfully and wonderfully advocated by general statements and conclusions. But its details and the principles, or rather lack of principles, which a discussion of it would reveal, would be different."

"This is not a good time to give a favored class an opportunity to draw upon the treasury for millions of dollars."

"It is not a good time either when everybody is taxed to the limit to initiate a perfectly vicious policy of relieving a certain class from taxation."

Service

Has New Meaning for Firestone Users

Service is a significant term to anyone using Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords.

Mileage is one way in which it has been given new meaning. The most exacting of tire-buyers—the big taxicab and motorbus companies and organizations using large numbers of automobiles for their salesmen—have been won to Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by sheer proof of mileage superiority.

Service, as Firestone users know it, means greater dependability and uniformity of performance as well. This is because Firestone has adopted and held to such difficult but important processes as double gum-dipping of cords and air-bag cure.

Tire repairmen—experts in tire construction—will tell you that the Firestone carcass is the strongest and sturdiest ever built. Firestone users by the thousands have voluntarily written us of their great satisfaction with the extraordinary mileage they have obtained.

You can forget your tires if you equip your car with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords on all four wheels. You will have the assurance that you are getting the best and most economical service that money can buy.

The section of a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord at the right was taken after 30,000 miles on a Yellow Cab in Chicago. By comparing the original thickness with the section on the left it can be seen that only one-third is worn off. Over 11,000,000 revolutions with continuous curb bumps, sudden starts and stops, road shocks and the constant use of the front end of the car in city traffic, of real tire service—indicative of the uniform performance of all Firestone Cords.

Great Electric and Gas Belt Increasing in Its Prosperity

MARKEED industrial revival and greatly enlarged building activity is noted in the industrial and residential districts on Chicago's fringe.

Chicago is bounded on the East by Lake Michigan, on the North, South, and West by the electric transmission lines and gas mains of the PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS.

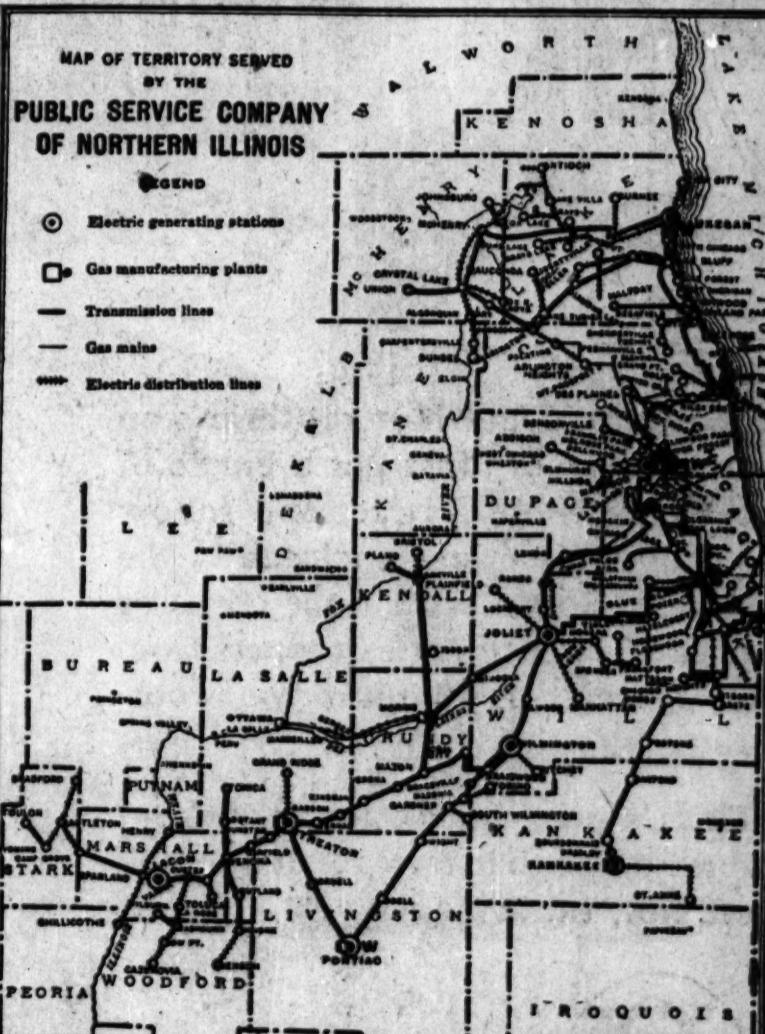

The electric power business of this company shows an increase of 24 per cent compared with Jan. 1. Electric lighting business has increased 15 per cent. Sales of gas for industrial purposes are 12 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1921.

Every move of an industrial plant to Chicago's outskirts and suburbs or of a citizen to territory adjacent to the city, means added electric and gas business for the PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY.

A territory of 5,800 square miles, whose population is in excess of 1,157,000 is served by the company's 7 gas manufacturing plants and 16 electric generating plants. Its 700 miles of high-tension electric transmission lines and 900 miles of gas mains serve not only the great industrial and residential districts surrounding Chicago, extending from the Wisconsin state line, on the North to the Indiana state line on the South, but sweep in a Westerly and Southerly direction as far as the Northeastern corner of Peoria County, crossing the rich agricultural and dairy regions.

As evidence of the great progress Northern Illinois has already made is the fact that the electricity sales of the PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS have increased nearly 400 per cent in the past ten years.

DAIRY FARMERS WIN $2.00 MILK; NO RETAIL BOOST

Dairy farmers in the zone which supplies Chicago with milk will receive $2.05 in August, and $2 in September. It was announced last night after an eight hour session of the Milk Producers' association and the big Chicago distributor at Hotel La Salle. "I am informed that the distributor decided not to take the retail price of 12 cents a quart," Russell J. Pease, city living costs expert, said when his investigators returned from the meeting. "The fact that the distributor can increase the price to the farmer from $1.60 to $2 a hundred shows that during the last few months milk should have retailed at 11 instead of 10 cents in Chicago."

The wholesale price was reached after a committee representing the Milk Producers' association had made many trips into a nearby room in which the distributors were in session.

Mr. Pease asserted that the association has no power to agree to a price on behalf of the farmers, and he said he will lay the matter before State's Attorney Crowe.

Milk producers contended they are not able to meet production costs at $1.60 a hundred for milk. Bankers emphasized the farmers' distressing financial condition in the Chicago milk area.

"Farmers are borrowing money from me to pay interest," said C. T. Allen, a banker from Cary, Ill. "Some have had to renew their notes four and five times. You may not believe it, but I took a note for $4 on interest last week. When a man can't raise that much he is broke."

SENATE O. K.'S ALL HIGH DUTIES ON FARM PRODUCTS

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—Continuing to approve any and all proposals of the finance committee to increase duties on agricultural products, the senate today accepted committee amendments relating to milk, dairy products and poultry. All attempts to modify the rates went by the boards, even Senator Lodge (Mass.) Republican leader who moved to include the farm bloc senators in a committee amendment making an exception to the high duties in the case of cream which his state obtains from Canada in the summer months.

The attacks upon the increased duties on milk were led by Senator Walsh (Mass.). Democrats who declared that costs of production are about the same in the United States and Canada and cents as in the house bill.

U. S. BOARD MAY DELAY HOSPITAL AT GREAT LAKES

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—The Great Lakes naval training station may not get a new hospital for several years, if at all.

The question of whether to build a permanent hospital or to continue a temporary structure, in which it is said there are a number of vacant beds, is under consideration by the central hospitalization board headed by Brig. Gen. Sawyer. The board must decide whether the expenditure for a new hospital is justified at this time.

At the board meeting yesterday no decision was reached. The question will be taken up again next week after further consideration of the arguments for and against using the temporary structure and deferring for a few years

HERRON BEATEN; EVANS IS VICTOR IN WESTERN GOLF

SEMIFINAL PAIRINGS

Kansas City, Mo., June 29.—Pairings in the semi-final matches tomorrow follow:

Charles Evans, Chicago, vs. Fred Wright, Los Angeles; George Van Elm, Salt Lake City, vs. Clarence Wolf, St. Louis.

BY JOE DAVIS.

Kansas City, Mo., June 29.—(Special.)—With one exception, the four matches in the third round of the western amateur golf championship at the Kansas City club resulted as expected. The lone exception was the defeat of S. Davison Herron of Exmoor, national amateur champion in 1919, by Clarence Wolff, the St. Louis city champion, 4 and 3.

Champion Chick Evans of Edgewood, Evans, going under defeated Ted Payne of Des Moines, 6 and 1. Fred Wright of Los Angeles defeated Jesse Stutts of Kansas City, 3 and 1, and George Van Elm of Salt Lake City defeated Frank Gaines of Omaha, 7 and 6.

The outcome of the four matches leaves an exceptionally strong quartet for the semi-final. Evans will meet Wright, a match good enough for the final of a national amateur champion.

Chick Favored Over Wolff.

Wolf, who will oppose George von Elm, was a semi-finalist in the western amateur at St. Louis against Harry Legg of Minneapolis, and a finalist at Memphis, where he lost to Chick Evans, so he does not lack for campaign experience.

Von Elm was practically unknown to golf fans until last year, but by reason of his victories in the Pacific northwest championship and in the trans-Mississippi tournament he rates as a slight favorite over Wolff.

It was evident in the early stages that Payne was a forlorn hope for the Hawkeye state as he was outdriven and uncertain on the greens.

Chick reached the turn 4 up and was 5 up at the luncheon interval. Chick was 6 up at the 27th hole and the match ended on the 31st green. The cards:

Herron, Tired, Beaten.

The tired of Herron's defeat was that of a tired man. He had worked for a man of his weight climbing the hills, and while he finished the morning round with a display of fine golf, his play in the afternoon was not up to his standard. Wolff played around his mistakes brought his own downfall.

He was trapped on his first drive and lost the lead. On his third he laid Wolff a dead stymie and Clarence had to pitch into the hole to make the shot, but failed.

Herron, from the rough, from 40 yards, pitched two feet from the fourth cup and then missed his putt. They sawed along, a 30 foot by Wolff for a two on the short seven hole featuring the outgoing round, which left Wolff in the lead.

The incoming saw some real golf. At the short fourteenth, 288 yards, Herron drove 285 yards right on the pin, chipped up dead, and squared the match with a par 3. They both bogie 4s on the fifteenth. At the home hole, 342 yards, both drove 280 yards, and Herron holed a 15 foot putt and ended the morning round 1 up with 5 to play. Cards:

Wright is Forced Hard.

Jesse Herron, the Kansas City player, gave Wright a close battle that was anticipated. A feature of the morning play being that eight of the first nine holes were halved, six of them in par figures. The afternoon round was equally well fought, Wright being 1 down twice, while three times they were all square in the first nine holes. Wright played par golf at seven of the eight holes and won four of them, Stutts taking one. A birdie 3 at the 16th hole gave Wright a score of 72, one under par.

By Harvey T. Woodruff. Help!

Entered for Dumbdumb Prize.

Dear Wake: Please speak to the No. 1 committee about my husband in connection with this year's award of the hand-embroidered ice pick.

He read about the wonderful new salt, which taken regularly, prevents goiter. He cared deeply for the idea and brought a quantity at 50 cents the pound from the drug store, since he will use none other in ice cream freezies. M. H. K.

Luckiest Golf Shots.

Dear Harvey: My wife and myself were invited out for the weekend to an old chum's country place near Indianapolis which has been curbed by a private golf links. The first and fifth greens are only about thirty yards apart.

We are on the first for which par is three. My wife's ball laid two. Not only did she hit the ball, but she took her position for the second hole and swung, only to slice the rubber ball about 45 degrees and send it directly for and into the right cup. Tell me, Harvey, was it dishonorable for us men to claim the hole in two?

Gone But Not Forgotten.

How dear to my heart are the scenes near my childhood. The Workman's Exchange, the Elks Lodge, the Fox and Hounds, gallop, racquet, tennis and Dart Tournament, and a few greens from Archery road 200 feet in and did the Pivots, the chimney of that time.

Do You Remember Way Back When? We danced in public halls the schooldays, in Naples, gallop, racquet, tennis and Dart Tournament, and a few greens from Archery road 200 feet in and did the Pivots, the chimney of that time.

"LET FANS IN" ON
SUCCESS OF SOX

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
Having consummated sixteen victories in their last nineteen engagements, Kid Gleason's White Sox deserved a respite granted them by the schedule makers. A short workout in the morning following their return from Detroit was all the venerable Kid asked of his men. This day also is open, so far as a championship game is concerned, but it will be partially profitable if a nationally profitable as an exhibition scheduled for Gary, Ind.

"EDDIE" GLEASON.
(TRIBUNE Photo.)
Tomorrow Gleason will have his men back at their favorite pastime—battling the Tykes. Ty Cobb, who was tame considerably by what the Sox did to his game in Detroit, is scheduled for tomorrow, Sunday, and Monday, with a possibility of a postponed game being worked in.

Gleason the Big Factor.

In the midst of the sensational sport of the Sox—a lot of players are pausing in their careers. Eddie Gleason factors have entered into the rise from last to third place, but the underlying cause is Mr. William E. Gleason. For one thing the entire squad has assimilated the aggressive spirit of the little old man. That accounts for the almost universal call the team has received of late, and also the manner in which hits have been forthcoming in the pinches.

The rise of Gorham V. Lovett is another factor. Two months ago this lad was just an obscure rookie. Today he is something else again. In his last two starts he has allowed one run in eighteen innings, and an error robbed him of two shutouts.

Other Reasons for Success.

It might be well to mention a few other things that have figured in the successes of the south side. Harry Hooper has been a long time with the Cubbs, is blossoming up and fielding as old. Soon he'll start hitting. The other infielders, Mulligan, Johnson, and Felt, have shown wonderful improvement. Lastly, the backbone of the team—Ray Schalk—is still behind the pan and don't think he isn't the BIG man in the machine.

SKIDDING YANKS SANDTRACK; BEAT GRIFFS IN TENTH

Washington, D. C., June 29.—New York divided its two game series here today by a break in the league schedule. Manager Killefer and the athletes welcomed the rest before opening a two game series with Cincinnati at Cujo's this afternoon.

ROBINS, 7; BRAVES, 3.
Boston, Mass., June 29.—Grimes pitched effectively for Boston against Boston today, the visitors winning, 7 to 3. Harry Hooper, in his last start, and Eddie Collins is blossoming up and fielding as old. Soon he'll start hitting. The other infielders, Mulligan, Johnson, and Felt, have shown wonderful improvement. Lastly, the backbone of the team—Ray Schalk—is still behind the pan and don't think he isn't the BIG man in the machine.

Society Women Open
Lake Forest Homes
for Benefit Parties

Mrs. George R. Carr and Mrs. Robert H. McElwee opened their residences in Lake Forest yesterday afternoon for bridge parties for the benefit of the Home for Destitute Crippled Children. Bridge playing is one of the most popular pastimes in that most fashionable of north shore towns, and the board of managers of a charitable institution which takes advantage of the always meets with success in obtaining funds. Yesterday's parties were no exception, and about $2,000 was made. The drawing rooms, verandas and terraces of the Carrs and McElwees residences were used to accommodate the players, about 200 in number. Among them were Mrs. Keene Addison, chairman of the committee on arrangements; Mrs. George M. Reynolds, Allan M. Clement, Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, Mrs. George E. Marcy, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Philipe H. Hoyt, Mrs. Harry B. Clow, and Mrs. Robert Carr.

The Arts club will close today for the summer months. Announcement of the opening in the autumn will follow later.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson and J. Allen Haines are giving a dinner party tomorrow night at the Onondaga. Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson will return to Lake Forest today, after several visits in the east, and Mr. Haines will return tomorrow from New York. He will sail the middle of July for Europe to join Mrs. Haines in Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hibbard of 1344 Ashland have returned from abroad and are at Watch Hill, R. I., for the summer. Their daughter, Miss Lydia Hibbard, has joined them. She will be a debutante of next season. The family will return home in late September.

Mr. and Mrs. Secon Cunningham of 92 Lake Shore drive have gone to Hyannisport, Mass., for the summer. Upon their return, they will occupy an apartment in the new building at 219 Lake Shore drive. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alida J. Brown of 67 Cedar street, will spend part of the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Sebastian are moving tomorrow from the Hotel Ambassador to the Edgewater Beach hotel for the summer. Their son, John, is leaving tomorrow for a camp in northern Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian are returning to the apartment at 219 Lake Shore drive in the autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Taylor of 10 East Schubert street are leaving tomorrow to spend the Fourth in Cobourg, Can.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Howe and children of Winnetka are at their summer place at Provincetown on Cape Cod for the season.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum of 1506 State parkway, for their family, are leaving Sunday for New York to sail Tuesday on the Aquitania. Mrs. Baum's daughter, Miss Janet Lawrence, will be a debutante next year.

Mme. Eleanor Glizycka and her daughter, Felicia, are in Santa Barbara for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Drake and family will leave July 31 for two months' trip through the Canadian Pacific Rockies and on to Alaska.

Mrs. Cyrus Bentley of 1505 Astor street, who returned a fortnight ago from a trip to the orient, is recovering from an illness which has kept her in bed since her return.

Mr. and Mrs. Watterson R. Rothacker and daughter, Virginia, of 2919 Pine Grove avenue, have left for New York to sail on the Majestic July 8. They will return early in September.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward East Barthell of Evanston announce the marriage of their daughter, Frances Keeble, to Albert Vlyvan Hall on Wednesday, June 28, in Ludington, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will be at home after July 14 at Portmore place, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fentress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fentress of 4400 Greenwood avenue, became the bride of Gerald Francis Rainey last Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the Gravel Court, Mrs. James F. D. Lanier's villa on Clay street. Mrs. Vanderbilt will take possession of her New home during the early part of next month.

Henry Payne Whitney will leave Westbury, L. I., tomorrow for Wyoming, where she will remain two weeks.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Parker of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Rosalind, to Wellington Brothers, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Edward Brothers, of Evanston, at a luncheon at the Glen View club on Tuesday. No date has been set for the wedding.

Five of "Pagliacci"
Sisters Add Merit
to Ravinia Offering

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Five out of six of the "Pagliacci" singers, including an uncommonly good singer at one singer, delivered a high class entertainment at Ravinia last night. The sixth failed to maintain the level of the others was not due to lack of merit so much as to miscasting.

Morgan Kingston was the Canio in one of the best performances he has ever given there in any of his numerous roles. It was his night. There was a certain magic about his rendering. Personally, and voice-wise, he seemed about twenty years younger than he did when he sang Pinkerton in "Madama Butterfly" a few nights before. Or perhaps the illusion occurred in his P' kerion. At any rate he made this Canio rather memorable. His voice had the effortless tang that means good singing, and he was well in his dramatic picture.

The soprano, Giuseppe Danies with a makeup that was a marvel of ugliness and a voice worth going miles to hear. Considered as a concert performance, the prologue took a new high mark. Even made it strictly a concert performance, with acting reduced to a minimum, and rich, expressive voice at a maximum.

Also among those present was Miss Dorothy Miller, maid of honor to the fourth Presbiterian church, the Rev. James Timothy Stone officiating. Miss Dorothy Miller was the maid of honor and Ralph Martin the best man. The bride had lived for the last three years at the Three Arts club. Mr. and Mrs. Moore will be at home after Aug. 1 at 622 Barry avenue.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—President Harding was host at dinner tonight for the group of members of the senate from agricultural states.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the reception of President and Mrs. Harding at Gettysburg, where the marines are to re-enact the stirring engagements of the wheat field, the Devil's Den and Pickett's charge.

The "Gettysburg White House" is nearing completion and a veritable hotel under canvas is being erected for the visitors who are expected to attend the grand military maneuvers at the end of the week.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

HELEN: IF YOUR ELBOWS ARE coarse and rough, massage the elbow with the palm of the opposite hand and thus get the grime loosened and ready to be completely removed by a camel's hair brush and soap and water. Scrub and then in cold water, repeat. Then follow with a strong solution of peroxide of hydrogen with a sponge or piece of absorbent cotton. You can repeat this bleaching process twice a day. Some elbows gather a kind of grime flesh about them that is disagreeing, but the soap and water treatment followed by the cold ablation will remedy that. Massage them with a little cold cream at intervals during the day just as frequently as you wish.

Frances Peralta is, it would seem, better fitted by temperament, sympathy, training, or what it may be, to roles of a more herald order than Nedra. This part demands peculiar qualities, and it is not those of a good Sissi or a good Alice. For these she is apparently well fitted; Nedra though no fault of her own became something of a struggle against conditions.

Add on the credit side of the performance, some singing by the chorus and playing by the orchestra under Mr. Papi's direction.

TREACHEROUS LOVE
BY BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

SYNOPSIS.

Shane Borsland, a prospector cruising up the Alaskan coast in his own schooner, the Hoonah, arrives at Kalleean. He and his wife, Ellen, their little son, and his wife's sister, are welcomed by Paul Kilbuck, the agent of the Alaska Fur and Trading company.

Kilbuck is known up and down the coast of Alaska as the White Chief. Borsland's interest is aroused by his tales of a lost island, on which Indian rumor has it that gold has been found. This mysterious island is supposed to be Kon Klavu, a small uninhabited strip of land ninety miles off the coast of Kalleean. At the mention of gold Borsland's adventurous blood is profoundly stirred and he decides to visit Kon Klavu.

Kilbuck encourages his visitor in his plan, through the medium of Kon Klavu. Kon Klavu is nothing more than a barren island completely surrounded by dangerous reefs and shoals and shunned by ships as a death trap. He is tired of the native women of his household, and Ellen's beauty and loveliness have fired his imagination. He decides to get rid of Borsland, but Ellen upsets all his carefully laid plans by refusing to remain behind at Kalleean, and so, with Jean and her young son, joins her husband's expedition to Kon Klavu.

Greg Harlan, the trading company's bookkeeper at Kalleean, captivated by the charm of young Jean, decides to make the trip with the expedition as far as the island and return with the Hoonah to Kalleean, but through an accident the boat goes back without him.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.
JEAN IS HAPPY.

As they talked evening closed in. From the alders on the hillside came the plaintive night song of the golden crown—the three notes of poignant beauty and mystery that were linked indissolubly with the summer twilights of Kon Klavu. Out over the reefs the sun had gone down splendidly into the sea. Broad ribbons of clear jade streaked the primrose of the sky. Beneath, bands of amethyst, amber, and rose merged slowly into a flame of crimson, and while the violet dusk crept over the sea, the stars came out. Blowing across the bare brown reefs the night wind brought the scent of kelp and the muffled boom of surf.

The peace and promise of the sunset soothed all into silence for a time. Ellen and Jean and Lollie sitting close on the bottom step of the porch, watched in reverent wonder as the colors changed. At last the boy lifted his eyes to his mother's face.

"God smiles, mother," he said simply, resting his tired head against her shoulder.

Jean leaned across to her sister.

"Ellen," she said quietly, "I think I love best of all the evening time of things, don't you—the fall of the year; the end of the day. I wonder"—wistfulness crept into her voice—"I wonder—I hope . . . no, I know that when it comes I'll find the sunset time of life is the most beautiful!"

As she finished speaking she turned instinctively to look at the old man on the porch above her, the only one of them whose slowing feet had turned into the Sundown trail. Kayak's hand, loosely holding his cooling pipe, rested on his knee. His sombre back his strong, bearded face, which had taken on the serenity of the evening. His deep eyes were calm with reverie. As she gazed the girl's heart was flooded with a pitying tenderness for him, for Kayak Bill, who, because of something buried deep in his past, faced the sunset life alone.

She turned her face away—and met the warm young eyes of Gregg Harlan bent upon her. Then suddenly she was glowingly happy because she was still young.

"I think I love best of all the evening time of things."

It was not yet five o'clock the following morning when Loll, from his blankets on the floor of the cabin living room, raised his tousled head and looked cautiously about him. His big gray eyes were alive with eagerness and expectation. The strangeness of his surroundings thrilled him with possibilities. Through the window the sun flooded world called him to adventure.

Again he glanced speculatively at the sleeping forms round him and then eased warily out of bed.

With a pudgy finger on his lips and long steps of stealthiness so exaggerated that his balance was threatened at every move, he tiptoed to the corner where his shoes lay, and, without stopping for any further addition to his toilet, slipped out the door in his nightgown.

He avoided the blanket cocooned figures of Kayak Bill and Harlan on the porch, and continued a short distance down the path to the chopping block, where he sat down to pull the shoes on his little bare feet.

Kobuk, returning from some early morning adventure on the beach, espied him, and with a red mouthed husky smile, came bounding up the trail wriggling an extravagant and clumsy welcome. With loud whispers hissed through fiercely protruding lips, Loll tried to shoo him away, but the dog only whirled about, thumping him with a joyously wagging tail and poking a cold damp nose down the neck of his nightgown.

After fastening the top button of his shoes Loll stood up and looked about him. The wonderful sunniness of the world thrilled him. From the blue sky soaring gulls called to one another, and the sunlight poured down on the silver green ocean and the little lake to the south. Faint breathes of air stirred the scent of green things, and everywhere was that exhilarating freshness of late summer that has in it the hint of autumn frosts.

The youngster waved his arms and danced from sheer joy of living, and, with Kobuk at his heels, ran down off the trail through the damp grass toward the lake.

About hundred yards from the cabin, hidden in a clump of alder bushes, he came upon a low hut built of drift logs. Half the roof was gone and pieces of decaying seal hide and a ragged red shawl embedded in the dirt floor hinted of the visits of long ago Indian outlaws.

Interested in his discovery, the little fellow was peering cautiously in, when, with a sudden bound, Kobuk dashed by him, nearly knocking him over. There was a whirr of wings overhead, sounds of bird alarm, and half a dozen swallows circled wildly about the frantic Kobuk before finding a place of escape through the hole in the roof.

"Gosh, Kobuk, I was pretty near scared," admitted the youthful explorer, looking up at the rafters, under which several nests made clay gray splotches.

Swallowing hard a time or two, he buttoned up the neck of his nightgown. Outside the hut again he slanted a discreet glance back in the direction of the cabin to assure himself that every one still slept, and then with a whispered whoop of invitation to the dog, skipped down toward the beach.

The cabin stood well back on the bank off the center of a small crescent bay, flanked on the north by the bluffs around which the party had come the day before. Toward the south the beach curved to what was marked Sunset point on Add-em-up's map. Loll tucked his nightgown up under his arm and headed for that unexplored territory, talking to Kobuk as he skipped along the point, Kobuk trotting on ahead.

He was the character of the beach changed, and the high tide line, where the rice grass began, was piled with a crisscross confusion of bleached drift logs thrown up by the mighty surf of storms. Mounds of old kelp lay drying in the sun, and the unforgettable odor of decaying sea things mingled with the freshness of the morning.

Absorbed in the delights of discovery, Lollie poked about in the tangled masses, finding strange, beautiful shells and sea flowers fragile and delicately colored as the heart of a rose. He gathered his nightgown up into a pocket in front of him in which to carry home some of the damp and none too fresh treasures of the beach.

The boy, looking up at the busy black workers, little dreamed of the vital and spectacular part both he and they were to play later in the struggle for existence on the island of Kon Klavu.

The weed covered boulders of Sunset point drew him, but though he felt strongly the fascination of the ocean bed now becoming uncovered by the tide, for some indefinable childish reason he hesitated to go down among the rocks in his nightgown. So, whistling with moist tunelessness, he rounded the point, Kobuk trotting on ahead.

Here the character of the beach changed, and the high tide line, where the rice grass began, was piled with a crisscross confusion of bleached drift logs thrown up by the mighty surf of storms. Lyle Meets Taunt with Short and Ugly.

"Bunk," "fourflushing," "a whirlie," "playing the futures," "bull"—these were a few of the words and puns which aldermen used yesterday during a minute debate on the question of increasing the pay of policemen and firemen $250 a year at a total cost of $2,380,000 to the city. The attempt to give the guardians of peace and property a pay boost Aldermen Lyle and Cermak started the battle with an order for increases for the firemen. Ald. Kostner had the order amended to include policemen of all grades up to Deputy Supt. Alcock.

Slang Holds the Floor.

"I can understand using a little 'bull' once in a while," said Ald. Maypole. "But this is going too far. This is pure 'fourflushing.' These aldermen know the money isn't in the treasury to pay these increases."

Then, after a vitriolic speech from Ald. Lyle, in which he charged that Wallace and Maypole voted for the within the revenues resolution so that their hands would be tied, giving them an excuse for not voting for increases, Ald. Wallace declared:

"If you want to know how much Lyle is on the square, you firemen in your fair will tell you that. Five minutes ago I heard him say, 'Aldermen know the money isn't in the treasury to pay these increases.'"

SOON TO BE A PRINCESS OF EGYPT? London society hears a rumor of the engagement of Maxine Stresenreuter of Chicago and Prince Zerdecheno.

DOES MOTHER APPROVE OF MATCH? This question is puzzling friends of Mrs. Frank Stresenreuter. She is now in London chaperoning her daughters.

to right) Fred Collins, L. A. Young, C. Crawford, W. Pam, and J. S. Southwick. Young is captain.

PROMINENT among rail executives is A. H. Smith, president New York Central lines.

WEDDING TIES IN EGYPT ARE FRAIL. Prince Zerdecheno recently divorced this princess just by saying to her, "I divorce you," three times in a row.

[Main Office News.]
KIDNAPED BY HUSBAND. Mrs. Clara Marshall carried away from Cincinnati golf course.

CHARGES CRUELTY. Mrs. Edna Webster Karpen tells judge husband won't support her and treats her cruelly.

ACCUSED. Benjamin Karpen, nephew of furniture pioneer, whose matrimonial venture again is in court.

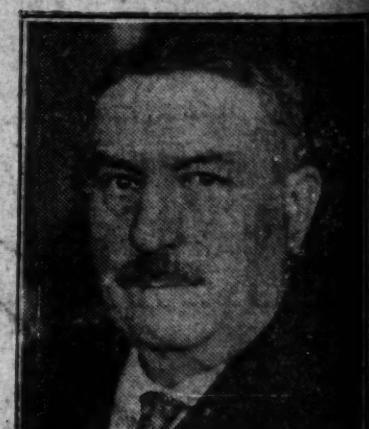

NO ONE WANTS TO SIT ON "BIG 3" JURY. Forty talesmen pass through box in day, but none is chosen. Key to courtroom picture follows:

No. 1, Elwood Godman, special assistant state's attorney; No. 2, Daniel McCarthy; No. 3, Robert McMillan, assistant state's attorney; No. 4, James Quin, attorney for McCarthy; No. 5, John J. Esright, attorney for Shea; No. 6, James Barbour, attorney for Murphy; No. 7, Frederick Fiske, assistant state's attorney; No. 8, Fred Mader; No. 9, Big Tim Murphy; No. 10, Emmett Flood Jr.; No. 11, John Tyrrell, attorney for Shea; No. 12, Con Shea; No. 13, Henry Tenney, attorney for Miller; No. 14, a bailiff; No. 15, John Miller; No. 16, a bailiff; No. 17, Emmett Flood.

CHAMP OF HIS CLASS. W. H. Freeman defeated all golfers 70 years old and older in Exmoor tourney.

MOBILIZES TROOPS. Gov. Shoup orders troops held in readiness to rush to Colorado mines.

MAMMOTH ARENA BUILT FOR MICHIGAN CITY BOUT. Finishing touches are being placed on this vast concrete structure where Fourth of July crowds will witness the istic battle between Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Rocky Kansas of Buffalo. Officials of the American Legion, which is staging the bout, say the arena will seat 38,000. Every effort has been made to seat them comfortably, twenty inches of seating space being allotted each ticket holder, and the seats painted blue in order to avoid eye strain.

The ring will be easily seen from any seat in the arena. Plans have been made to run cold water down through the aisles to help "keep the fight fans cool."
